Sanctions Are Possibility as Council Meets

League to Consider Failure
Of Committee to Settle Dispute

TENSION LESSENS ON MEDITERRANEAN

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

GENEVA, Sept. 25. — Sanctions loom nearer in the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia. The council of the League of Nations has been summoned for a fateful meeting tomorrow morning, when it will have before it the report of the five-power committee with its failure to attain its objective of a settlement of the quarrel between the two countries. It is now for the council itself to act.

The plan, it is understood, is to appoint a committee, possibly consisting of the whole council except the parties to the dispute, which would prepare a report and recommendations it deems just and proper.

LEADS TO SANCTIONS
The step would be one of the greatest consequences. For unless conciliation in the meantime succeeds, the procedure under Article 15 is regarded as leading the way to Article 16, which provides for sanctions.

When the report is prepared it will come before the council for adoption or rejection.

If the council adopts it by a majority vote, the members of the League reserve the right to take action.

SHIP COMPANY IN BANKRUPTCY

Pacific Steamship Claims
Losses of $1,000,000 Due
To Labor Troubles

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25 (AP).—Declaring its losses because of labor troubles have been more than $1,000,000 in the past year, the Pacific Steamship Company filed bankruptcy proceedings in Federal Court here today, in a move calling for reorganization and scaling down of debts.

Federal District Judge Harold Louderback immediately signed an order setting a hearing for October 21 and leaving the steamship company in temporary possession of its property.

FINANCIAL POSITION

Assets of $6,588,189 were listed, including an item of good will calculated at $1,277,284.55. Total liabilities were given as $2,923,198.

Decision to file proceedings under the amended bankruptcy laws was reached at a meeting of the board of directors last Monday.

The resolution adopted at that meeting was affixed to the petition. It listed the reasons for increasing losses as "lessened efficiency, inability to handle cargo, and diversion of cargo."

VALUE OF EIGHT SHIPS

A potential market value of more than $2,000,000 was set upon the line's ships, the Emma, H. F. and Percy Alexander, and the Admirals Wiley, Chase, Sebree, Rogers and Evans.

The directors' resolution, offered by Herbert Fleishacker, pointed to losses caused by the general strike of 1934.

It also gave as a factor in the losses the Pacific Northwest lumber strike.

DOUBLE DEATH MYSTERY AT LOS ANGELES

Nephew Confesses to Sending Bodies in Car Off
End of Pier

YOUTH IS HELD AS SUSPECTED-SLAYER

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25 (AP).—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinhufer, each about sixty years of age, were recovered from the waters of the harbor at San Pedro tonight, a few hours after their nineteen-year-old nephew, Leroy Drake, confessed, Detective Lieutenant Frank Condafer said, that he saw them die of poison, placed their bodies in an automobile and allowed the machine to plunge off a pier.

The youth, who told police he saw his aunt and uncle "keel over" from poison in their home here last Friday night, denied he had administered the poison.

BECAME PANIC STRICKEN

He told, Condafer said, how he kept the bodies in the house for more than four hours before deciding to take them to San Pedro and plunge the automobile carrying them into the water. He said he did this because he was "panic stricken."

Condafer said the youth would be held for suspicion of murder without bail, declaring he confessed that he had forged his uncle's name to checks and that he was the beneficiary under his uncle's will and to life insurance policies.

HELD FOR QUESTIONING

Young Drake, an astronomical student, was taken into custody this afternoon for questioning after the mysterious disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Steinhufer from their home.

The youth, after several hours of questioning, finally admitted he had driven the bodies to San Pedro, left the car in gear, and jumped from the machine as it plunged from the pier.

Young Drake, returned to the police station, said his aunt was responsible for the death of her husband and herself, poisoning the man and then ending her life in the same manner.

WOULD ASSIST IN EMIGRATION

Conference Settles on Plan
To Be Presented to British Cabinet

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, Sept. 25 (AP).—The conference on emigration to the Empire concluded tonight after preparing a written case for a Government-assisted emigration scheme.

The brief, which a deputation will present to the Government, urged that a large-scale emigration scheme would help solve unemployment at home and abroad. Financial assistance would be paid by saving unemployment relief.

Establishment of an Empire development and emigration board with statutory powers is advocated and it is suggested the annual budget should provide grants to settlers.

TO FORWARD PLAN

The plan will be submitted to the Cabinet by the Lord Mayor of Newcastle, R. S. Dalgleish, and a deputation of members of Parliament and representatives of emigration authorities from all parts of the country. Copies of the statement afterwards will be circulated to Dominion Premiers, High Commissioners and Agents-General, with a letter from the Lord Mayor of Newcastle appealing for their co-operation in an effort to bring about the biggest move ever made for the repopulation of the Empire by families and communities from the United Kingdom.

SEARCHING FOR QUATSINO MAN

Fisherman's Boat Is Found
Adrift Shortly After Leaving
Coast Harbor

PORT ALICE, Sept. 25.—Fear for the safety of William Botell, well-known fisherman of Quatsino Sound, have been aroused as a result of the finding at sea of his boat, damaged and adrift by Captain Perrie. Mr. Botell left Coal Harbor at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bound down the Sound. Two hours later his boat was found.

It is thought that the fisherman may have fallen overboard while his boat was running, and that it later struck against some object, stopping the engine.

Provincial Police and friends of the missing man are conducting a search of the waters and shore from the locality where the boat was found to the landing at Coal Harbor.

Accepts Explanation Offending Remarks Not Made by Mayor

Italian Vice-Consul Objects to Speech Made at Trades Congress Convention at Halifax—
Chief Magistrate Refuses to Apologize

TORONTO, Sept. 25 (P).—Chevalier Dr. G. Tiberi, Royal Vice-Consul of Italy in Toronto, late today replied to Mayor Simpson's communication in which the chief magistrate said he had no apologies to make for statements at the Trades and Labor Congress convention in Halifax and bespoke his "personal opinion" in "condemnation of the attitude and doctrines of the political leader of your country."

The consul's earlier letter said if he was the mayor's utterances were connected with his official position as mayor, "I vigorously protest against such statements as you have uttered, as being opposed to the most elementary laws and customs of international relations."

In acknowledging the mayor's reply, Consul Tiberi said he was "glad to hear you explain that your statements did not take into consideration your official capacity as mayor of the city of Toronto."

The vice-consul's protest was in the form of a letter, calling attention to Mayor Simpson's address and particularly this utterance:

"In this trouble now threatening there is one ruler whose doctrines are most poisonous and who is actuated by a spirit of bitterness and hate. He said some years ago he believed the world would never get beyond the state when war was countenanced by mankind. This man cannot be expected to live in harmony with other people and is a menace to the people of the world. If he is determined to act as a mad dog, he must be dealt with as one."

NO APOLOGY TO OFFER
The mayor, in his reply, said: "I attended the convention as a delegate from my own union and not, of course, in my official capacity as mayor of Toronto."

"I have no apology to offer for my remarks."

"I am kindly disposed toward the people of your great country, but am not in sympathy with the policy of Fascism which is now evidencing itself in the threat against world peace by a war of aggression."

PARTY STANDS BEHIND RECORD

D. B. Plunkett Says Conservatives Fight Campaign
On Past Achievements

"The Conservative party is the only party in this election campaign that is appealing for the support of the people on its past record and at the same time advancing new policies designed to better the conditions of Canada and the Canadian people," declared D. B. Plunkett, Conservative candidate for Victoria, at a meeting at South Park School last night.

Mr. Plunkett dealt with the value of the Empire trade agreements to industry in the Dominion. He reviewed social legislation advanced at the last session of Parliament and mentioned the reform policies outlined by Premier Bennett earlier in the year.

LIBERAL POLICIES
The candidate criticized the Liberal policies and made special reference to Mr. King's statements in the House of Commons that the Liberals would never agree to the Empire trade treaties and would, at the first opportunity, either destroy or wind them up.

With regard to Section 98, Mr. Plunkett declared Mr. King would never repeal the section. "If it should be so unfortunate for Mr. King to be returned to power, he would, I have no doubt, bring in some sort of resolution and would immediately pass it on to the Senate and tell the people of Canada he could do nothing with it against a Tory Senate. That would be his way out," Mr. Plunkett declared.

W. A. McKenzie, former minister of mines in the Provincial Government, dealt mainly with the proposal of the C.C.F. and its leader to grant the right to vote to Orientals in British Columbia. He said the Oriental population of British Columbia at the end of 1933 was approximately 51,000 and increasing year by year.

ORIENTAL SITUATION
The former minister declared emphatically that Mr. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, had been placed on record in Hansard in the House of Commons debates, as favoring the enfranchisement of Orientals. "I am not in favor of giving the vote to Orientals, make no mistake about that," Mr. McKenzie said. "Are you people prepared," he went on, "to hand this province over to the Orientals and have them sit in your Legislature, make laws and govern the people? How long will it take, do you think? Not very long at the rate of increase in the population of Japanese and Chinese here. I would like to ask the people of British Columbia, the end of 1933 was approximately 51,000 and increasing year by year."

Slightly over 100 candidates were in the field, and of that number the leader, claimed they would likely elect around forty. Votes for the C.C.F. are votes thrown away, Mr. Harvey stated. Adolph Lancaster was chairman.

PRODUCTION CLIMBS
TO HIGHER LEVELS
Other factors contributing to a year of quiet, steady progress, without its recessions at various points, include a reduction in relief lists during the first eight months of the year, and a decided gain in active employment in the regular trades and callings. Industrial payrolls will be higher than a year ago to a noticeable degree, it is believed.

PRICES STEADIER
Supporting better returns in the primary industries have been a series of price advances over a wide range of commodities, which at one point or another bear favorably on British Columbia production. Precious and base metals, lumber and wood products, livestock and foddery, all improved during the year, with market openings at some points brighter than they have been for the past three years.

B.C. Relief Lists Continue Steadily Less in Numbers

BRITISH Columbia relief registrations for August were 4,116 individuals less than in the month previous, and approximately 50,000 persons less than at the peak of registration in March, 1933. Provincial figures disclosed yesterday. The lists included 16,551 heads of families and 16,537 single men, with 46,459 dependents. August totals were the lowest of the year, and the lowest but one of any month in the last three years. Next month the Province will begin registration anew.

URGES BRITAIN TO TAKE ACTION

Lloyd George Says European Nations Should Force Italy to Abandon Outrage

BRISTOL, Eng., Sept. 25 (P).—David Lloyd George urged Great Britain and other European nations without France if necessary—to cut Italy's lines of communication to Africa and force her to abandon "this outrage against Ethiopia."

"What is the good of saying we have not the force at our disposal," asked the Great War Premier. "The fact of the matter is that the thing that frightens them most in Rome is that we sent our Navy there."

"They were scared. But what did we do? We at once sent a special message that we did not mean to hurt them."

SET POLICY FOR SPAIN
MADRID, Sept. 25 (P).—The new Spanish Government, it was learned tonight, has agreed on a policy of absolute neutrality in case of war.

MUCH DELAY
If both Italy and Ethiopia reject the council's report, neither, under Article 12 of the covenant, can resort to war for three months.

The council committee probably will take a week in the preparation of its report, which is expected to differ in form from that of the five-power committee.

The Assembly is expected to adjourn at the end of this week at the call of the president.

IMPROVED RELATIONS
ROME, Sept. 25 (P).—Improved relations between Great Britain and Italy resulted in cancellation of the sailing from Naples tomorrow of 10,000 soldiers for Libya.

Because of the decline in tension between the two Governments, it was explained, the reinforcements in Libya, which borders upon Egypt, are not necessary. The better feeling resulted from mutual assurances between Premier Mussolini and Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary.

It was emphasized, however, that the departure of troops for East Africa will continue unchecked. The Italia sailed from Naples today with 1,200 men, and tomorrow the Colombo and Merano depart with approximately 2,800 soldiers.

Italy will never take the first step in transforming the Italo-Ethiopian conflict into a European one, said a Government statement.

SITUATION CLEARED
This was part of a communique which disclosed that Sir Samuel in a personal message to Premier Mussolini said Great Britain was "particularly desirous of eliminating every useless misunderstanding between the two countries."

The communique mentioned that Sir Samuel was "speaking as an old friend of Italy." Italy "has not and does not wish to have any difference with England," it added.

Other developments saw the closing of the border between Eritrea and Ethiopia to commence by order of the Governor of Gondar, according to a Stefani (Italian) News Agency dispatch; a communique of the Catholic Action Organization of Italy indirectly supporting the Government's African campaign; and a statement by prelates of the Papal Court that the Pope probably would deliver a peace message in the course of a broadcast message tomorrow.

LOSING INTEREST
GENEVA, Sept. 25 (P).—Italians at Geneva disclaimed tonight an Ethiopian appeal for the dispatch of League of Nations observers to that troubled kingdom and their spokesman went so far as to declare:

"Italy is rapidly losing interest in what the League may or may not do."

"That was the retort when the spokesman was asked what he thought of a telegraphic appeal to the League from Emperor Haile Selassie, stating Ethiopian troops had been withdrawn from the frontiers to avoid 'incidents,' and reiterating a request for impartial observers to 'fix the responsibility' for any aggression that might occur."

In all probability, the spokesman continued, Italy's chair at the League council horseshoe table will be vacant tomorrow when the council begins to talk over the situation.

As expressed by the spokesman, the Italian attitude tonight was that the League has failed utterly to realize that Ethiopia is not a "real" nation and has failed to understand that events have unfolded that Ethiopia has no qualification whatsoever to be a member of the League or to benefit under the Covenant.

CRITICALLY INJURED IN FREAK ACCIDENT
MONTREAL, Sept. 25 (P).—Working on a freight car near here, Real Binette, twenty-one, threw a crowbar to the ground and jumped after it. The heavy iron bar struck a rock and bounced up to pierce the man's chest as he landed. The bar went right through his body, and protruded several inches from his back. He was taken to hospital in a serious condition.

Geologist Says Find Made
By Prospector at Great
Slave Lake

EDMONTON, Sept. 25 (P).—A new gold strike west of Yellowknife Bay, on the north arm of Great Slave Lake, was revealed to the world on Tuesday when Dr. Fred Jolliffe, of the Federal Geological Survey, flew out of the North after a Summer spent in the Northwest Territories.

"The strike was made on September 15, several miles from the Burwash discovery," said Dr. Jolliffe. He refused to divulge the name of the prospector who made the strike, pending the filing of his official report which he returned to Department of Mines headquarters at Ottawa.

Dr. Jolliffe and his party of fifteen student assistants from the University of Alberta explored an area of roughly 10,000 square miles on the north shore of Great Slave Lake and found that 2,900 square miles of the district was underlain by pre-Cambrian sediments and volcanics, relatively favorable for the occurrence of gold and silver deposits.

BENNETT SUFFERING
SLIGHT EYE TROUBLE
CALGARY, Sept. 25 (P).—Prime Minister Bennett passed through Calgary tonight en route to Saskatoon, where he will speak tomorrow night. He is traveling via Regina.

Suffering from a slight inflammation of the right eye, Premier Bennett called a Calgary eye specialist to his special car. The Prime Minister later had a little trouble with the eye, but nothing serious.

Offers to Meet

Opponents Upon

Same Platform

An offer to meet all his opponents in the Nanaimo Federal riding on the same platform during the present election campaign was made by Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in the Nanaimo constituency, in addressing Spanish electors last night in Royal Oak Hall.

"I would welcome the opportunity to discuss the issues of the campaign with all my opponents from the same platform on the same night, and would willingly forego any of my meeting engagements for that purpose."

Veterans' Children Have Benefited by Monthly B.C. Grants

School Allowances to Ex-Soldiers' Families Have Proved Worth While, After Six Years of Practical Trial of Hinchliffe Scheme

SETTING a bright record in government service, the British Columbia Soldiers' Dependents' Children Commission has distributed provincial grants of $70,000 to a total of 1,218 children during the last six years, at an administration cost of only $354. The grants, in small monthly sums, went to enable veterans' children to continue studies at school where, with few exceptions, those so assisted have exceptionally fine records.

The foregoing highlights are taken from a report issued yesterday by the commission, which is composed of Dr. S. J. Willis, deputy minister of education (chairman), Lieut.-Col. W. B. Buell, Capt. C. E. Money and J. A. Perry, on behalf of the Provincial Command of British Columbia veterans' organizations. Miss G. M. J. Davies, of the Provincial Civil Service, acts as secretary to the commission.

AUTHOR OF SCHEME

The scheme was set up by the British Columbia Legislature in 1929, at the suggestion of Canon Joshua Hinchliffe, then Minister of Education. Annual grants made by the Province have fluctuated between $10,000 and $15,000, standing at $11,000 for the current year. By careful administration the grants have been stretched to cover four times as many children as were aided at the start of the scheme. 391 students being the number of beneficiaries this year.

From the pages of a statistical report shines out the real story of the work of the commission, which has painstakingly inquired into the circumstances of thousands of homes, made decisions acknowledged as equitable and just by those affected, and supervised by a scheme in which nearly 100 cents in every dollar reached its objective and got results.

WORK DISCUSSED

One paragraph from the report of the commission in summing up its work conveys volume. It reads:

"During the school year 1934-35 a large proportion of the students were rated 'good' in both progress and conduct by their principals, and several were rated 'excellent.' One boy headed his class at each examination. Another received badges for proficiency, scholarship and athletic ability, besides being elected president of his school. In all, 94 per cent passed on to a higher grade at the end of the year. Six of these students were promoted with honors, one girl making an average for the year of 89.66 per cent. . . . In the final examinations eleven students matriculated, three passed matriculation and Normal entrance and six received partial junior matriculation standing."

Another excerpt tells its own story of the courage of those who fought for their country overseas and have found life difficult since their return. It reads:

UNCOMPLAINING

"A survey has been undertaken to ascertain the actual financial status of all those receiving aid. The results disclose in most cases a pitiful struggle to exist on incomes which can only furnish the bare necessities, and often the situation is made more intense by the burden of illness. Frequently large families exist on as little as $40 a month, and in many cases the income is still smaller. In one case the department grant is the sole income, the veteran in question and his daughter making the best of things and living on the produce from their garden."

The commission, pointing to many cases excluded from the plan by reason of the limited funds at its disposal, recommended some extension of the system as soon as funds are available for that purpose. Veterans themselves are reported as taking up the question actively, impressed by results.

GOOD WISHES TO RETIRING VICEROY

"It has been an inspiration. To represent the King personally is the greatest honor I can think of, to represent him in Canada is something more than honor. It is a privilege, it is an inspiration."

"I have been associated with a young, virile and brave people, God-fearing and loyal, with faith in their country and its future. To associate with them is to be fired by their optimism and to be encouraged by what can be done by friendly cooperation. You have gone straight forward on the path laid down at Charlottetown in 1924 when in the hearts and minds of the delegates was born the Dominion of Canada."

"After association with you I have no possible doubt of the truth of the words written of the Fathers of Confederation, that 'providence bring their guide' they builded better than they knew."

CANADIAN SON

"In parting from Ottawa, I cannot forget that my wife (a native of France) and I came to you symbolizing, in our domestic union, the union of two great races in Canada. We take away with us from Canada amongst many treasured souvenirs and memories the gift of a Canadian son. Just over four years ago he was christened in Ottawa and has had his home at Rideau Hall ever since."

Assuring his hearers that the Countess and himself would follow with liveliest interest in all that happened in Canada, the Governor-General added, "We shall recall that we have been with you when clouds were dark. That you did not flinch. We shall know, therefore, that you will overcome any further obstacles that may beset your path. We shall always think of you with affection and have full confidence in the future of your country."

Regretting the unavoidable absence of Premier Bennett, "who has been my principal advisor and good friend during my time here," the Governor-General said he felt no one could better take his place than Sir George Perley and, in the Prime Minister's capacity, "that charming lady, his sister" (Mrs. W. D. Herdridge).

"Amongst other privy councillors whose duty to the electors prevents them being here, I would mention Mr. Mackenzie King, whose personal friendship has been a privilege to enjoy."

UNFAIRING COURTESY

He spoke of the unfurling courtesy he had received from the members of Parliament and the Senators. In trying to perform the duties which the King had entrusted him, "I have had help and sympathy from every quarter. What I owe, however, to my wife, I cannot express in words."

The message from the Houses of Parliament to Their Excellencies was presented to them by Sir George Perley.

Presenting the toast to Their Excellencies, Sir George Perley expressed regret that the Prime Minister was unable to be present. Mr. Bennett explained his absence in the following telegram to His Excellency:

"It is a matter of the deepest regret that I find it impossible to return to Ottawa from Western Canada in time to be present at the dinner which the Government of Canada has the honor to offer to Your Excellency and the Countess of Beasborough tonight, and to say farewell on your departure from the capital tomorrow. I had hoped I would have had this further opportunity of voicing Canada's appreciation of Your Excellency's distinguished services to our sovereign and his people in this Dominion. In counsel and advice, Your Excellency's long experience in public affairs has been of the greatest value to His Majesty's Government in Canada, and the tireless and disinterested services which Your Excellency has rendered to the Canadian people will be long remembered with gratitude."

"The cordial friendship which I have been privileged to enjoy with Your Excellency will remain one of my most cherished and grateful memories. May I take advantage of this occasion to express my respectful admiration for the manner in which Your Excellency has discharged the numerous and important duties of your office and, at the same time, to convey my appreciation to the dignity and charm which have characterized His Excellency's conduct."

"In saying farewell to Your Excellencies I hope you may both carry away from Canada the pleasantest memories of your sojourn among us, and I wish to assure Your Excellencies of our best wishes for your future welfare and that of the members of your family."

"PERSONAL FRIENDSHIP

"To this message," said Sir George, "His Excellency has been graciously pleased to hand me the following reply to be transferred to the Prime Minister:

"Lady Beasborough and I are deeply touched by your kindness. We are both very sorry we shall not see you again before we sail, but realize your duties to the electors at this juncture make it impossible for you to return to Ottawa from the West before our departure."

"You and I have been closely associated day in and day out for nearly five years. The intimate relationship formed between us has led to a personal friendship which will continue, though our official connection is now coming to an end. I shall always look back upon our association as a happy memory and shall look forward to seeing you whenever you may visit England."

"Through you, my wife and I would like to express to the people of Canada our sadness at leaving and our heartfelt gratitude for the happy years we have spent among them. We both wish that our stay in Canada had not coincided with hard times, when the people have been so sorely tried. The manner in which they have borne trouble without flinching has, however, enabled us to appreciate the strength of the Canadian character and to form a great admiration for them."

"I have supreme confidence in the future of Canada and shall always take the deepest interest in her progress and in the welfare of her people."

STILL FIT TO SERVE RIDING

C. H. Dickie Tells Gordon Head Residents That He Has No Barnacles

"I may be a little frayed at the edges, but I have no barnacles and will try to serve my constituency to the best of my ability as I have done for fifteen years," declared C. H. Dickie, Federal Conservative candidate for the Nanaimo riding, at Gordon Head last evening.

Mr. Dickie related how Hon. R. B. Bennett informed Mr. Mackenzie King in 1929 that trying times were ahead. Mr. King, he said, ignored the advice of Canada's most outstanding leader and went ahead on a reckless orgy of expenditure. During the last four months of 1929, the Liberal Government admitted 38,000 Europeans into Canada when there was no work for them.

FOSTERED TRADE

Through wrongful trade policies Canada found many world markets closed, and this was the situation that confronted Mr. Bennett in 1930. Mr. Dickie asserted. He told of the Premier's successful attempt to foster trade within the British Empire. New markets found for lumber, bacon, ham, and other products had proved of great benefit to thousands of producers.

"Mr. Bennett is a dictator only in the respect that if he is sure he is right he acts quickly," asserted Mr. Dickie, giving an illustration how the Prime Minister stopped the leasing of Indian lands to Orientals on Vancouver Island.

THREE CHOICES

Three choices are open to electors on October 14, said Brian Hoole, president of the Saanich Conservative Association. "They could choose the party of action, headed by Mr. Bennett; the party of promises, represented by Liberalism, or the C.C.F. policy of dreams." He explained how the Farmers Creditors' Loan Act and the Natural Products Marketing Act, passed by the Bennett Government, had proved of vital assistance to farmers.

Describing how the Federal Liberal Government destroyed the chances of the honest farmer to make a living, R. A. Wootton related that $11,000,000 worth of fresh vegetables and $1,024,000 worth of strawberries were imported into Canada in the last year of the Mackenzie King regime. He asked the audience if they favored a reputation of loose trade policies permitting dumping of farm products. There was a chorus of loud "noes."

RUINED MARKET

Branding the statement on Liberal posters that Mackenzie King would regain markets lost by Mr. Bennett as a deliberate and malicious lie, F. S. Cunliffe, president of the Nanaimo Conservative Association, described how the King Government had ruined the farm products export market to the United States.

Col. S. L. McMullen presided. Songs were sung by Mrs. Dickie and Robert Wormald. Refreshments were served.

Eleven Men On Trawler Feared Lost

LONDON, Sept. 25 (P.)—A fierce storm which whipped the North Sea pounded the trawler Skene to pieces on the jagged rocks of Speeton Cliff, near Bridlington, and all hope was abandoned for the craft's crew of eleven.

Coast guardsmen tried in vain to rescue the men from the trawler with rocket lines. Seeing lights aboard the doomed vessel under the cliff, they launched three lifeboats in the raging sea, but failed to approach the craft.

WITHOUT POLITICAL RANCOUR

There is this to be said about the campaign which Mr. R. B. Bennett is conducting throughout the country, that in all his utterances he allows no single word of bitterness to leave his lips. Even in Vancouver, that hotbed of radical thought and irresponsible theories, he maintained his equanimity in the face of wholly unwarrantable interruptions at his meeting. All his speeches have given the impression of obvious sincerity and good temper. They have been free from rancour. His course, indeed, is one of the antithesis of that pursued by his political opponents, who have been guilty of the foulest kind of talk in their attacks on his administration.

Mr. Bennett in dealing with those opposed to him in the present campaign has never indulged in bitterness; there has been nothing mean in anything he has had to say. He realizes that his position places him above pettiness. He discusses public questions from the statesmanlike standpoint, appeals to the reason of the electorate and fortifies everything he has to say with inescapable facts.

The conclusion to be reached from his speeches is that during the past five years Canada has had strong and resolute government. This fact, as it becomes more deeply impressed on the consciousness of the people, cannot fail to help the Conservative cause. Mr. Bennett's appeal is to the good sense and the sound judgment of the voters. The cause of the Government does not call for political recriminations; it does not demand extravagant promises for the future. There is a record of progress under the most trying conditions and for what has been accomplished in political life the Bennett Government is responsible. It has proved a Government of safety, and appeals to the people on the basis of their powers of reasoning.

NEARLY 6,000,000 VOTERS

In the coming Federal election there are 5,915,029 persons eligible to vote out of an estimated population of 11,000,000. The prognostication is that there will be some 900 candidates for 245 seats; and the two old-established parties will be represented in practically every constituency. Public opinion is in a chaotic state at this time, but so varied will be the political stripes of the candidates that almost every shade of public thought will have an opportunity to register its allegiance. Moreover, the candidates for election represent nearly every walk in life. More perhaps than hitherto in elections voters will support whoever they consider a good candidate, irrespective of party allegiance. In this way the character of public opinion will be evidenced. This may not prove to be the best course to be followed by those who believe in stable government, but such is the condition of men's minds that it is a time when personal predilection supplants party allegiance, at least among a certain proportion of the electorate.

It is conceivable that at the most 80 per cent of the electorate will vote, perhaps a smaller proportion. At any rate, over 4,000,000 votes are anticipated, and they will be split up in a disconcerting fashion. It is possible, of course, that the good sense of the country will, at the last moment, decide to give a verdict for stable government, and that is the hope of the situation. Multiple parties nowhere have led to the type of administration which has made British countries the envy of other lands. They have simply confused issues and led to administration based on compromise. It is to be hoped that such a situation will not develop in Canada, or else progress will be arrested.

THRIFT, PRIVATE AND PUBLIC

In one sense of the term, saving refers especially to one class of goods, namely consumption goods. Economists, when they speak of saving, are apt to place the emphasis upon durable goods, so called. The distinction between these two classes of goods is important and is regarded by some economists as one of the most serious of all economic distinctions. As is often the case with elementary ideas in science, it is also one of the clearest. By consumable goods is meant those which can be used but once. In an economic, though of course not in a physical sense, they perish in the using. They cease to exist, as such, after a single service. Food can be used once, and only once. It is used up in the process of eating. Other examples are beverages, medicines, tobacco, fuel, matches, coal oil, soap, writing paper, ink and the like.

The distinction between such goods on the one hand and durable goods on the other is natural, exact, and easily apprehended. Houses, furniture, factories, machines, tools, railways, ships, although they finally wear out, can be used over and over again for a longer or shorter time, and render not one but a great many services, some of them for very long periods.

Saving in one sense of the term, then, applies to consumption goods and implies a regulation and frequently a slowing down of the process of using. The thrifty householder, with just so much food or fuel, if there is little prospect of increasing the stock during a given period, will regulate the consumption of these goods, and in so doing I said to "save." In the other sense of the term saving applies chiefly to a process of caring for, repairing, replacing, and augmenting a stock of durable goods.

The importance of this classification of goods is apparent at once when we reflect that in any factory or farm or in any community, regarded as a unit, the process of production must come to an end if the durable goods employed in production are not maintained in working condition by necessary repair and replacement. An individual farmer who devotes all his energies and resources to the daily needs of his household, and has no time to look after his house, buildings, fences, and implements, is on the way to bankruptcy, and the same is true of the community as a whole. A certain portion of the total real income of the thrifty individual and of the thrifty community alike is set aside for the maintenance and augmentation of real capital, the durable goods which are concerned in the productive process. Saving in this sense of the word may be defined as the augmentation of real capital. Thrift in this view is a social as well as a personal duty.

Unfortunately, it is a duty which politicians are apt to lose sight of when they are looking for votes. Some political groups are busily engaged at the moment in devising and offering to the electorate elaborate plans and schemes of extensive spending of public funds, new and costly services to communities and even monthly money payments to voters. In the present financial condition of the country what is really needed is a policy of retrenchment and effective saving, private and public, a policy never very popular at best and one which is sure to meet with violent and noisy opposition from the least responsible elements of the population.

AN OLD-TIME ELECTION

Sir John Ross, who was Ireland's last Lord Chancellor, died last month. As well as having been one of the foremost of latter-day Irishmen, he is recalled as having figured in an election which must have established something of a record. In 1892 he was elected as Conservative Member for Londonderry, his native town, where he received his early education at Foyle College. That election was described by Sir John himself. "Not merely," he said, "did all the electors vote, and many were carried to the polls—but a large proportion of the inhabitants of the cemetery expressed through the polling booths their political opinions in no uncertain way." Sir John was elected by a majority of twenty-six. Feeling ran so high that the result was not declared on the night of the election. The declaration was made in front of the Courthouse on the following morning, with the English regiment which garrisoned the town drawn up in hollow square, with loaded muskets, acting as a barrier between the rival factions lest they fly at each other's throats. Elections in those days were a trifle more strenuous than at present. Home Rule in Ireland was a very live issue, even in the "Maiden City."

AUSTRALIA'S GOVERNOR-GENERAL

The new Governor-General of Australia is to be Sir Alexander Hore-Ruthven, who was Governor of South Australia some years ago. He is probably the first Governor-General ever to hold the Victoria Cross, which he won at the age of twenty-seven for a gallant exploit during the Nile Expedition in 1888. In the Great War he served in France and Gallipoli, when he was severely wounded. In 1928 he was appointed Governor of South Australia. While there a Socialist Government came into power and announced that one of its planks was the abolition of the State Governorship. Instead, that Government extended Sir Alexander's appointment for a year. He will go to Australia with an established reputation in that country and with the general good will of all the people. He succeeds Sir Isaac Isaacs, who was the first Australian appointed to the post.

INFLUENCE

Adrift on Time's returnless tide,
As waves that follow waves, I slide,
God grant we leave upon the shore,
Some waif of good I lack before.
Some seed, or flower, or plant of worth,
Some added beauty to the earth;
Some larger hope, some thought to make
The sad world happier for its sake.
—J. G. Whittier.

Some of God's noblest sons, I think, will be selected from those who know how to take wealth, with all its temptations, and maintain a golden rule. It is hard to be a saint standing in a golden niche.—Becher.

Whenever you commend, add your reasons for doing so; it is this which distinguishes the approbation of a man of sense from the flattery of sycophants and the admiration of fools.—Steele.

In order to discover truth, we must be truthful ourselves, and must welcome those who point out our errors as heartily as those who approve and confirm our discoveries.—Max Muller.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

And pulpit, drum ecclesiastic.
Was heard with just instead of stick.
The smallest worm will turn, being trod upon.
—Shakespeare.

We have been hearing and reading some things which almost convince us that something must be done for the legal protection of newspapers and of newspapermen. Writers for the press must be very guarded in their statements and editors must scrutinize every line submitted to them for publication for the law of libel will get them if they don't watch out. There are eagle-eyed lawyers scanning every printed line and ready to pounce upon any statement which they are sure they can convince a client is "actionable." Newspapers are often sued for libel. Whoever heard of a newspaper or a newspaperman suing an individual for libel? The conditions are so unfair that we shall be tempted some day to form a Society for the Protection of Journalists and Newspapermen from persons, who, occasionally in the pulpit, and frequently in public places, indulge in intemperance, and very often slanderous, language, when speaking of our honorable estate, the fourth in the realm, taking precedence even over the pulpit.

We see by the papers that editors and journalists also are having their troubles in other parts of Canada. The editor of an Eastern newspaper was called a scoundrel by an aroused and wrathful politician. The editor of another paper writes, pointing out that the term scoundrel is legitimately applicable to only the very lowest forms of humanity. The statement was obviously slanderous and actionable, but in these days when political passions are aroused, candidates for public office may be considered in a condition bordering on irresponsibility. The libeled editor might have taken personal action with his natural weapons of offence, but physical chastisement would not have cleared character, and newspaper men are constitutionally peaceably inclined. Besides, the pen is more deadly than the fist or the tongue, and while there is life there will be opportunities for retaliation.

We have been told of late many things the people say, and have replied to them say. What they are saying may amuse the congregation or the crowds; they cannot hurt us. We were told, as already stated here, that one individual declared that all newspapers should be suppressed for the good and welfare of the community. We also were told that one of the popular pulpit orators of the town declared in a sermon which could not have been based upon a text of Christian charity that all editors should be hanged. But why stop at hanging? Why not administer justice according to the principles of the old intolerant times when public enemies (and sometimes private enemies) were drawn and quartered after being hanged, and their heads and other discovered members exhibited on the city gates and other public places? Oh, well, it is written that an ill dog will bite the hand that feeds it.

A few days ago we wrote a trifling and what we thought a jocular thing about politics in the churches, in which there was a passing reference to Bishops and Deans. In that article we now realize there was an indiscretion. We gave Deans precedence over Bishops. Yesterday of the day before we met a man who appeared to be fairly bursting with the mental pressure of a good story. He told us that at a meeting addressed by a Bishop he was handed without ecclesiastical gloves. The speaker appeared to be irritated. He said we did not know what we were talking about when we discussed Bishops and Deans, the duties of their holy offices and the manner of their selection or election, and he hoped we happened to be in the audience for admonition and chastisement.

More in sorrow than in anger, may we be permitted to point out that we admitted we did not know anything at all about the manner of the selection or the creation of Bishops and Deans, so we did not pretend to know something of which we were ignorant when writing about it. But our judgment may have been bad and our taste worse when we expressed a belief, based upon fact and fiction, that intellectually the Deans appeared to have an edge on the Bishops. Our critic has a wide knowledge of such matters, and if he feels that as a Bishop he has been affronted, may we be permitted to make retractions and apologies to himself and to the whole ecclesiastical establishment.

The man who told this story to us, believing it to be one of the best of the season, also told us that we missed something worth hearing by reason of our absence from the meeting addressed by the Bishop-Coadjutor.

Look Out, Mr. Braddock
Joe Louis, sensational young Detroit Negro brawler, who, Tuesday evening, smashed out a four-round victory over Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, is headed for big things in the cauliflower-pastime. Experts pick him as the greatest heavyweight of all times, all of which means that James J. Braddock, who wrestled the crown from the brow of the wild-swinging Californian a short time ago, would be well advised to keep clear of Louis. In his prediction of the bout, Braddock picked Baer to win by a knockout, and was a long way from being right. If and when he steps into the same ring with Joe Louis, this same Mr. James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world, will undoubtedly find out just why his prediction of the Baer-Louis scrap was all wrong; and unless I miss my guess, Mr. Braddock will hear the birds sing when this time comes.—S.T.

G. J. Alexander, Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries, hit the nail upon the head when he stated at a Kiwanis Club meeting: "A misunderstanding, through lack of knowing something of the other fellow's business, has been responsible for many of the world's troubles." . . . Our reporter friend, who is nearly seven feet tall and has aspirations to a medical career, critic, uses some unusual terms in carrying out his avocation. Yesterday he described Barcelona, played in flat fashion upon a violin, as "a sardine dipped in treacle." . . . Electronitis

Loose brains rattle loudest. A tight man is open-handed with other people's money. National dividends mean $25 a month in Alberta. $80 in B.C. Elsewhere you can write your own ticket. The current puzzle is what candidates do between spells of running for office. Or is the running done while the spell is on? Am I a Canadian politician? (Dunsmuir, Ltd., attempted to introduce the contract system in No. 5 mine in direct violation of the agreement that existed between the men and the company, not even attempting to discuss it with the committee representing the employees. Much concern was expressed by the men, and it was deemed necessary that the union call a special meeting to insure the widest possible attendance so that the high-handed action of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir, Ltd.) could be thoroughly discussed.)

Hire a Couple of Halls
When leaders in public life hire auditoriums to discuss with the electorate the many important issues confronting Canada today they at least should be given a fair hearing. Apparently there is one section of the community, however, that, while fighting for the repeal of section 98, does not seem to realize just how freedom of speech means. Instances of this were given both at the Hepburn and Bennett meetings. If that section of the community does not wish to hear the problems of the day discussed, and would rather join in rowdiness, perhaps they could enjoy themselves much better if they hired their own hall. They could then make all the noise they like, and particularly as they would be in company that would suit them better.—P.C.R.

Gathering On the Cheap

A gentleman, living not 100 miles from Victoria, is probably one of the best posted men with regard to Dominion Government legislation, acts and regulations. He is one of the most complete libraries of government publications in Canada, and the acquiring of it has not cost him one cent. He drops in at a hotel and uses hotel stationery and writes to the minister, department or department from which he wants information, asking for copies of the latest reports concerning the matter he is then interested in. He does not have to stamp the letter. He sends, as he is writing to a government office, and he receives pamphlets and publications he asks for free of charge. As public relations go out of date and newspapers acquired, the old ones are used by the Vancouver Islander for heating purposes.—N.A.C.M.

The Way Out

Now that Reconstructionist Percy George has signed the Social Credit pledge, the way is open for Candidate King Gordon to sign the Reconstructionist Social Credit-C.C.F. Liberal for-meral amalgamation, and Candidate Plunkett can complete the political goulash by appending his name to the Reconstructionist Social Credit-C.C.F. Liberal formula. Then when this is completed, the candidates can sit down and play freeze out to see whom to go to Ottawa, and the 110,000 working in Canada will have all won, anyway.—B.A.M.

BIRCHEN BRIDGE FOND

Sir—I do like anything I write to be accurate, and I am concerned at finding a real error in the article I wrote in the Sunday Colonist of August 11, "Random Notes in England." A local resident who knows the Hordham district even better than I do has made it clear that the lower shore of water by the side of the Hordham-Mannings Heath Road, which I tried to describe, is not the Hammer Pond, but is Birchen Bridge Pond. The Hammer Pond is another piece of water altogether, though quite close. All very well to say, "What's in a name? The pond by any name would look as lovely." No doubt, but I sent a copy of the article to Hordham, and there may be Hordham people here, too, and I am tired of sackcloth raiment and a diet of ashes.

Another reader has said I am inaccurate in my reference to Southend Pier, as to the being originally a wooden erection, and to the horse tram that ran on it. I have no corrections to make on this score, however. When I first wrote it, at the mature age of four, it was built of wood, and a horse tram did run on it. It was rebuilt in steel about the year 1880, and several subsequent extensions have, of course, in steel—were made. I remember it all quite well. Just when the horse was gathered to its fathers I cannot say, but I am positive it is quite dead now. EDWARD H. LIVESAY.

"EDUCATION AND CRIME"

Sir—I would like to endorse the letter dated September 21, written by Mr. Wiggs on "Education and Crime."

When I arrived in Canada a few years ago I was surprised to hear on all sides tales of the dishonesty and corruption in politics, and the "graft" among public officials. Presumably, many of these men were educated in Canada's public schools. Does that say much for the training they received when they were young? The motto of my old school in England is "Honor Before Honor."

If less thought were given to what often turns out to be useless "book-learning," and more real education instilled on—training in the ideals of good citizenship, good breeding and a higher standard of morals, there would be some hope for Canada's future.

We know that the home is the right training ground, but unfortunately so many children seem to possess parents who are either ignorant and apathetic, or else actively hostile to what is good and best that a great responsibility lies with the schools of this country. E. A. FRASER.

CUMBERLAND LABOR DISPUTE

Sir—A few days prior to August 6 the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir, Ltd.) attempted to introduce the contract system in No. 5 mine in direct violation of the agreement that existed between the men and the company, not even attempting to discuss it with the committee representing the employees. Much concern was expressed by the men, and it was deemed necessary that the union call a special meeting to insure the widest possible attendance so that the high-handed action of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir, Ltd.) could be thoroughly discussed. The company replied by locking out 500 employees on August 6. The Department of Labor intervened, and on the understanding that a conciliation board would be granted that all men with the exception of one would be put back to work the mine reopened. Later Mr. Harrison, of the Department of Labor, arrived here and informed the men that the new policy of the Government was not to set up expensive boards in "trivial disputes," but that first of all he would investigate the number of patients in the hospital. The mine is working seven days a week, digging and dumping coal on Sundays, which is a violation of the mining laws. The men voted solidly to strike the work, which would make room for the forty-five discriminated men, but the company would not allow it. This attitude is obvious. Singularly enough, the actions of the Federal Department of Labor have coincided with the policy of the company in this regard. They have persistently declined to grant a board on the basis of the lock-out, insisting that a strike vote must be taken first, which is a contradiction to the Industrial Disputes Act.

We wish to bring these facts before the thoughtful attention of the people, as preparations are now under way to take a strike vote to put back to work the discriminated forty-five.

PLEDGES PARTY TO ADJUSTMENT

J. McDowell Says Social Relief and School Costs Will Be Lifted From Land

Visions of a building boom in Victoria, under which 1,000 new homes would be erected, 1,000 other homes remodeled, and taxes for social services, education and relief removed from land as a result of Liberal policies were painted for city electors last evening by Jack McDowell, Victoria Liberal candidate, speaking at the George Jay School.

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH
"Liberalism, as outlined by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is unchanged since 1933. It has no pre-emption bribery or promises to offer, but is cold-blooded logic, based on Liberal actions in the past. It stands for the control of credit in Canada; for cheaper money; for the removal of restrictions on the movement of goods, both internally and abroad. You can sum up the Liberal platform by saying it means greater and freer distribution of real wealth to the people," Mr. McDowell declared.

Homes and other property in Victoria were being unfairly taxed for education, for social services and for relief costs, continued the candidate. This, he said, was all wrong, and would have to be rectified.

PROVED UNWORKABLE
Governmental regulation and control of business, and the expenditure of billions upon public works had been tried under the N.R.A. in the United States and proved unworkable, continued Mr. McDowell.

Rev. J. S. Woodworth, for the C.C.F., was promising the people a standard of living equivalent to $4,000 a year per family, out-matching Premier Abernethy, but disclosed no method by which this could be brought about, other than a "modified form of inflation."

Reduction of tariffs and removal of trade restrictions were the only legitimate means to recovery, and these the Liberals promised, the candidate declared.

A. B. McNEILL
A. B. McNeill cited history to illustrate his contention that depression and third parties in Canada synchronized with Conservative administrations. Conversely he argued that prosperity had always come under Liberal rule.

Between 1925 and 1930, continued Mr. McNeill, Canada's imports had been $5,811,000,000, and exports $6,279,000,000, compared with imports of $2,857,000,000 and exports of $3,097,000,000 between 1930 and 1935. Trade in the last five years, he asserted, had been reduced by 50 per cent, resulting in unemployment and industrial stagnation. With the advent of Liberal policies, depression would take wings and fly away, he concluded.

M. B. JACKSON, K.C.
M. B. Jackson, K.C., attacked the private control of credit and currency, which, he said, was under the domination of a few interests in Eastern Canada. He pledged his party to the nationalization of this control in a publicly-owned central bank. A national bank had been the outstanding need of Canada for many years, he asserted.

Mr. Jackson charged Conservative speakers with inconsistency in that the Laurier reciprocity negotiations had been brought to nought in 1911, but reciprocal trade agreements with the United States were now held out as a bait to the electors. The C.C.F., he said, did not understand at all.

W. H. Kinsman presided.

SPECTACULAR LONDON FIRE IS DESTRUCTIVE

The riverside walls of the warehouse toppled outwards, smashing over barges moored below and destroying them.

RUBBER CHOKES DRAINS
The acid fumes of burning rubber, for a time, prevented the firemen from approaching the warehouse. Two truckloads of gas masks were requisitioned, and a respirator van dealt with the casualties. The molten rubber choked the drains and streets became awash. A film of rubber also spread over the Thames.

The famous Turk's Head Inn, where, in olden days, pirates en route to execution were given a pint of ale as a last earthly consolation, was endangered. The licensee and his family were ordered to leave.

While thousands lined vantage points along the stream, pleasure boats filled to capacity steamed up and down the Thames and passengers craned their necks at the inferno. Men and women in evening dress hurried from the West End theatres and clubs to swell the throng.

VAST THRONG AT PONTIFICAL MASS

Meanwhile, in a nearby public auditorium, fifty priests also started the celebration of Masses, consecrating the particles of Eucharist to be distributed at the stadium.

The thousands of men left their seats in the grandstand and began filing toward the altar as Archbishop Goggin reached the part of the service where the "eucharist consumes the bread and wine."

The men took their places at the eighty-foot-long kneeling benches, carrying the hosts they had consecrated, and began distribution of the Eucharist.

PIONEER CITIZEN IS LAID AT REST

Large Attendance of Old-Time Friends at Funeral Rites for F. W. Vincent

The funeral services for F. W. Vincent, which were held yesterday in Christ Church Cathedral, with Rev. T. R. Lancaster officiating, were largely attended.

Interment taking place in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Noticable among those in attendance were the old-time residents of this city and also the older members of the Canadian Pacific Railway coasting service, many of whom had retired from active service.

They had been associated with Mr. Vincent in the shipping business for years, and by their attendance at the obsequies marked their last respects to one with whom they had had most pleasant associations.

Among those who attended the services was one of the first men with whom Mr. Vincent had come in contact in Victoria, Capt. John Irving, former commodore of the old Canadian Pacific Navigation Company here. Capt. Irving came from Vancouver to attend the funeral of his friend of many years standing.

The pallbearers were drawn from officers and ex-officers of the service with which the deceased had so long been associated before his retirement some years ago. From those who had served as captains in the service were Capt. Douglas Brown and Capt. R. A. Hunter; James Pettit and J. A. Heritage were representatives of the engineers in the service, while from the office staff were A. B. Apple- yard and D. C. Robertson.

FIRE SEASON ENDS IN B.C.

Foresters Report One-Third Fewer Outbreaks in Woods This Year

Cold and showery weather in all forest districts marked the close of the British Columbia forest fire season this week, with a total of 1,054 outbreaks reported for the whole season, one-third less than had occurred last year.

Though twenty-two new fires were reported last week, foresters conceded that the danger of any serious blazes in the woods is now past for this season.

The record of 1934 fires reported compares with 1,538 fires of which the Forest Branch of the British Columbia Lands Department had knowledge last year.

DAMAGE LESS
While official figures for the loss in timber and burned-over areas are not yet available, predictions of a considerable reduction in the normal level of damage are being made. "Rains interspersed throughout the entire season reduced the number of fires, together with a growing appreciation on the part of the general public of the necessity for care with camp and picnic fires in the bush."

The camp fire permit system was continued, with ready co-operation on the part of the public, it was said.

SUPPORTS VOTE FOR ORIENTALS

Roger Bray Outlines Stand Of C.C.F.—Instruct Candidates in House

"We recognize no distinction of color, race or creed. But we realize we have to be practical and not Utopian in that belief. It is not expected we will extend the vote to Orientals without careful investigation. There never has been any suggestion of this. There would be no need to apologize if we did, because the Orientals can show we whites many tricks in the game, particularly in organization."

"The Orientals were brought here to lower the living standards of the workers in British Columbia. British Columbia is the only province where naturalized Chinese are not given the opportunity to vote. The British-born Orientals will be given first chance at voting, while all others will qualify by reconsidering their standard of living. As they prove they are not a menace to the whites, they, too, will be given votes."

Thus did Roger Bray, Vancouver, outline the policies of the C.C.F. on the Oriental vote question in an address last night in Tillicum School, where he was speaking in the interests of J. S. Taylor, C.C.F. Federal nominee in the Nanaimo riding. H. H. Grist presided.

PRaises C.C.F. LEADER
He claimed the working classes of Canada would always be indebted to Rev. J. S. Woodsworth for fusing forty different political stripes, all formed in protest to the old line party governments, under one group—the C.C.F.

He felt that the C.C.F. must proceed carefully, because the potential victory was equally a potential failure. This, he explained, was because the party had built up a political superstructure without a foundation. New machinery would be instituted under the C.C.F. administration, he said.

INSTRUCTED ON VOTE
Mr. Bray explained the stringency placed upon all elected candidates. They would be advised how to vote on all legislative matters, and failing in this would be subjected to disciplinary punishment, which would be administered by a governing National Council of C.C.F.

The candidates must be approved by a convention before they are placed as nominees in the field, Mr. Bray said. He anticipated between fifty and sixty members of the organization would be elected.

He termed Social Credit system as the brain child of "gullible people who think they can get $25 a month from nowhere." He answered various questions at the end of his address.

FARM CHILDREN REACH NANAIMO

Forty-One Young Boys and Girls on Way to Fairbridge Farm School

NANAIMO, Sept. 25.—Forty-one children from the British Isles, between the ages of eight and twelve, landed in Nanaimo today to be greeted by Major and Mrs. M. Trew who will be their mentors and friends in the years to come. They were en route to the Fairbridge Farm School, near Duncan, where the boys will be trained in agriculture and the girls in domestic science.

The scheme, which has received aid from the Prince of Wales, is designed to give British children a chance in the Dominion.

There were twenty-seven boys in the party and fourteen girls in charge of Miss M. Herbert, Miss Ailer and Mr. Beauchamp. Rev. H. E. P. West, vicar of St. Dunstan's in the East, London, and a firm supporter of the plan, accompanied the party.

WELL DRESSED

The youngsters were smartly dressed. The boys wore English school caps, reefers, blue shorts and neat grey half stockings. The girls wore blue dresses with neat hats and coats to match.

The school has a capacity of 250, stated Major Trew. The major will act in the dual capacity of headmaster and mentor. He declared the scheme had been particularly successful in Australia.

It was suggested to Rev. Mr. West that there might not be much demand for domestic servants in Western Canada.

"Don't you worry about that," he replied. "There won't be a glut on the labor market. We find in Australia that the girls marry the boys and set up their own families."

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A WORD TO THE WISE
A warning and a bit of advice to all bridge clubs: This probably is the last summer that a bridge club, or any club for that matter, can get along without a modern air refrigerating system. The heat from partner's rotten bids already is bad enough and the members simply won't stand being broiled in addition by summer heat.

This means a great boon to bridge and to our bridge clubs which heretofore faced with dread the slump of hot summer months. I know that I often have dropped into a theatre for relief from the heat. It is well known that in the winter bridge is one of the greatest rivals of the moving picture theatres as a means of recreation. Chances are now that this rivalry will be extended to the summer months and Rox's alleged estimate that bridge already is costing the moving picture industry $30,000,000 a year may prove to be too conservative.

Nate Spingold is a moving picture magnate who already has profited from the example set by his theatres. In his New York house he pioneered a cardroom with an air cooling machine. In a room with a temperature constantly around seventy degrees, Nate and his guests sit and play bridge, forgetting that outside less fortunate ones had premonitions of sunstroke. Nate is one of the country's best players, although I admire him far more for his keen practical knowledge of the mass mind, and is entitled to his game in all sorts of weather. But perhaps if fewer people go to the movies next summer he will have vague regrets that he set so good an example.

STUMBLING INTO A SLAM
I asked Nate Spingold to tell me the funniest hand he ever played and he showed me this one. He tried to overbid, expecting to be set 500 points or so to prevent his opponents from making a vulnerable small slam. To his amazed delight he found his partner making six-odd.

Two members of the Solarium board of directors, Mrs. Curtis Sampson and Mrs. W. The above suggestions were made. So the next step is to organize the tag day.

Musical Art Society Opens Season With Successful Affair

Mrs. T. W. A. Gray, Beverley Place, Lends Home For Charming Musicale and Tea—Programme Introduces Pleasing and Talented Artists

IN the charmingly intimate setting of Mrs. T. W. A. Gray's home, 1064 Beverley Place, the Victoria Musical Art Society opened its 1935 season with a musicale and tea.

With an attendance of about 100, practically all of whom enrolled as members of the organization, the occasion augured well for the interest to be taken in the club events during the coming months, while the programme itself, given entirely by local talent, suggested the high standard of talent that is available in our midst for further entertainments.

Mrs. C. S. Beals, president of the Musical Art Society, opened the proceedings with a short address of welcome to the visitors and an expression of the club's appreciation to Mrs. Gray for so kindly lending her home for the occasion. She also drew the attention of those present to the folders announcing the club activities for the next seven months, and mentioned the junior and juvenile branches of the society, both of which are also ready to accept applications for membership.

ARTISTS

Those taking part on the programme were Mrs. Harold Campbell, whose all-round musicianship has been proved on numerous occasions, and who yesterday as a soloist showed a clear, pleasing soprano, of bright quality, used with great taste and expression; Miss Edie Friend, pianist, who has a secure facility of execution, particularly secure in its rhythm, and showing sense of melodic line and appreciation of musical values both tonally and interpretively; Mrs. H. F. Lasenby, possessor of a rich natural contralto of sympathetic timbre; Miss Dorothy Francis, violinist, who shows firm round tone, clean intonation, directness of intention and a very sound technical equipment; and Miss Sheila Conway, soprano, and Miss Eleanor Walker, mezzo soprano, whose vocal duets were models of spontaneous and artistically finished singing in peculiarly well-matched voices.

THE PROGRAMME

The programme, delightful in its every detail, was as follows: Vocal group, Mrs. Harold Campbell, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Conyers: "To a Millipede" (Ralph Cox), "Sylvia" and "But Why?" (from Fred Knight Logan's "Songs of Cupid").

Piano, Miss Edie Friend, "Balade in A Flat Major" (Chopin). Vocal group, Mrs. H. F. Lasenby, accompanied by Mrs. Conyers: "O Flower of All the World" (Amy Woodford Pinder) and "Love Is a Rose" (Gertrude Sans Souci).

Violin numbers, Miss Dorothy Francis, accompanied by Miss Maunna Daniels: "Deutscher Tanz" (Burns-Moore), "Valse Triste" (Sibelius), and "Polish Dance" (Edmund Severn). Vocal duets, Miss Sheila Conway and Miss Eleanor Walker, accompanied by Mrs. John Gough: "I Would That My Love" (Mendelssohn), and duet from "Cosi fan Tutte" (Mozart).

WELL-ARRANGED

The tea hour was also a most successful detail, offering new and old members an opportunity to meet socially. Presiding at the artistically-appointed table, with its centre-piece of orange and lemon-colored chrysanthemums flanked by lemon-colored candles in twisted silver candlesticks, were Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. James H. Fletcher, Mrs. S. J. Willis and Mrs. G. M. Weir. Mrs. D. B. Keir, who was in charge of the dining-room, had as her assistants in serving Mrs. W. R. Foster, and the Misses Langworthy, Dorothy McMillan, Edie Friend, Phyllis Deville, Helen Ockenden, Dorothy Parsons, Hattie Hervey and Sheila Conway.

The hostess, Mrs. T. W. A. Gray, and the Musical Art Society's president, Mrs. Beals, welcomed guests as they arrived, and at the receipt of customs were Mrs. T. W. Bradshaw, Miss Scowcroft, Miss Green Harper and Mrs. W. B. McMillan.

Silver Tea Held By St. Andrew's Guild Successful

A most successful silver tea was held yesterday afternoon by St. Andrew's Women's Guild at the home of Mrs. F. A. Rounding, 1392 Rockland Avenue. The president, Mrs. John Cochrane, assisted by Mrs. Rounding, Mrs. George Sanson, Mrs. E. H. Griffiths and Mrs. M. R. Pearce, welcomed the many guests. Mrs. William Head and Mrs. Paulson had charge of the donations. The reception hall and drawing-room were decorated with clusters of autumn foliage, Michaelmas daisies and goldenrod. Mrs. H. P. S. Lutz, Miss Isabel Nicol, Mrs. Forrest Angus and Mrs. C. E. Morris presided at the tea table, which was attractively arranged with a centre of green glass, pink roses, and rose asters, flanked by candles in matching holders. Assisting in serving were Mrs. P. Cudlip, Miss Audrey Tooley, Mrs. R. Armstrong, Mrs. M. R. Pearce, Mrs. A. Hodd and Mrs. P. J. Campbell. The tea arrangements were in the hands of Mrs. H. S. Mason and Mrs. David Scott. Miss Kathleen Roberts assisted those who wished to have a peep into the future.

A musical interlude was much enjoyed. Mrs. W. Hays, with Mrs. G. Downard at the piano, sang solos; Mrs. F. Griffin, with Mrs. M. Thornburn as accompanist, also sang; and Miss L. Noble, who was one of the vocalists, was accompanied by Miss B. Fraser at the piano. Mrs. George Sanson was the convener.

PRAIRIE COUPLE TO SETTLE HERE

Victoria's charms have captivated another prairie couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stewart, his Annie, Manitoba. During the past few days they have been visiting various sections of the city with a view to settling here probably next year. They left for Vancouver yesterday on the afternoon seaplane.

Social and Personal Notes

Complimentary to Miss Shelagh Tait, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Tait, whose marriage is to take place shortly, Mrs. J. O. Cameron entertained at a charmingly appointed luncheon yesterday at her home, "Rosebush," Moss Street. The table was attractively arranged with a central bowl of salmon-pink "Charming" dahlias, and lighted with pink candles in crystal sconces, while the individual place cards were miniature veiled brides. At the guest of honor's place was a pretty corsage bouquet of pink roses, tied with silver ribbon. Covers were laid for twelve, as follows: Mrs. J. O. Cameron, Miss Shelagh Tait, Mrs. D. S. Tait, Mrs. J. A. Griffiths, Mrs. James Cameron, Mrs. A. M. Gowen (Vancouver), Mrs. A. W. McCurdy, Mrs. John Stevenson, Miss Tina Hall, Miss Bruce, Miss Jean Campbell and Miss Constance Robb.

Mrs. Patricia Bishop and Mrs. Mary Bishop were joint hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at Mrs. Bishop's home on Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Elsie Warburton, a September bride-to-be. The gifts were presented from beneath a daintily decorated umbrella in pale green and pink. The guests were: Mesdames Warburton, Whitehead, Johnston, Jenkins, F. Ferris (San Francisco), Misses Jean Bishop, Lauraine Steele, Betty Schwarz, Marjory Morris, Doris and Ellen McCaghey, Thelma Birnie, Doris Henry and Dorothy Warburton. A little girl about nine years old and a man who was obviously her father were riding in the subway. The child would address questions to her companion and he, busy with a newspaper, would grant monosyllabic answers. After several attempts to engage her father in the conversations, the little girl sat back with a resigned and wistful smile and said: "Well, stocks certainly must have gone down today."

Mrs. Bagley Tells About Convention

Nanaimo Local Council of Women started its activities for the winter season on Tuesday, holding a brief executive meeting which took the form of a conference with Mrs. A. C. Bagley, of Vancouver, provincial president, who came to Nanaimo to give a report on the recent national convention, where she represented Nanaimo.

The important work of the National Council, of which each local council is a unit, and representative of women's organizations across the continent, was brought to light in Mrs. Bagley's comprehensive address on the operation of that body.

COUNCIL'S INTERESTS

Some of the recent stands taken by the National Council, which were supported by given to musical festivals, and requests that local councils' civic committees work on the problem of over-crowded slum districts and the demolition of undesirable houses. It reiterated its stand of the desirability of women serving on city councils, school and hospital boards and in the capacity of inspectors.

Approval was voiced at the suggestion that goods manufactured under minimum wage conditions be labeled, and the label looked for when local council members are making their purchases; that more opportunities be given to children born out of wedlock, and that health committees urge for vaccination this year, at the recommendation of Dr. Edward Guest. Mrs. Bagley mentioned hospital cafeterias in existence in the East, where relatives of patients can purchase food at a moderate price during waiting periods.

PRISON CONDITIONS

She spoke of conditions in Kingston Prison, where she had paid a visit on behalf of the Nanaimo Council in connection with a resolution urging that any improvement to Western prisons shall have consideration of a request for accommodation for women serving two years or more housed in Kingston. The chairman of the law committee for Nanaimo Council explained that when the site for Kingston had been chosen, there was no West, and Canada was sparsely populated. The act provided that incarceration take place in the province in which conviction occurs.

Mrs. Bagley stated, in reply to a question from the local council, that investigation of conditions for women in Okalla, which had been started after the Nanaimo resolution was taken to the Provincial Council, had brought out that the women's quarters in Okalla were inferior to those of the male quarters, and that the Provincial Council was working on the matter.

A musical programme after the meeting delighted the audience. Miss E. D. McKinnon and Miss B. Addison as soloists and Mrs. Brown an efficient accompanist.

$500 Fine Imposed for Violation of Game Act in Regard to Spotlights

Hugh McKnight, who lives in the Goldstream district, was fined $500 in the Provincial Police Court yesterday in default will have to spend sixty days in jail. He was accused of having a spotlight in his possession on September 18, when discovered with a gun in the woods. Two game wardens discovered the accused about 9 o'clock in the evening, with a flashlight in his hand and was coming in their direction. When he discovered the wardens, the accused, testified, turned and went back a piece along an old roadway. Later he came back. After conversation, the wardens went along the route taken by the accused and found the gun which he presumably had left. The accused admitted later it was his gun, but denied that he had been hunting deer.

LIBRARY GROUP HOLDS MEETING

Carnegie Scheme Is Fully Explained At Chalmers Gathering—More Units Being Formed

CHEMUNIS, Sept. 25.—The local council of the Carnegie Library scheme met on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Sandilands. Those present were Mrs. Adam, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Donahoe, Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. Stubbs and Mr. Hurling. Also from Craig, the president of the Ratepayers' Association. An invitation was also extended to Councilors Simley and Reeve-Tisdale, but they were unable to be present. From Lady Smith were the Messrs. B. Tranfield, D. Meredith and Mr. W. Aikenhead. From Crofton, Major and Mrs. Bailey and from Westholme, Mrs. Groves, Miss E. Jones, Mrs. Dee and Mrs. Richards.

WORK OUTLINED
Mr. Wilkinson, chairman of the executive, outlined the work already done, and then explained to Crofton and Westholme visitors the proposed plan. He was ably assisted in putting the scheme clearly before the committees by the visitors from Lady Smith, who gave a very concise and clear statement explaining and answering questions of both local, Westholme and Crofton members, and also in passing on valuable explanatory literature.

Mrs. Bailey kindly agreed to interest a Crofton group to form a local executive to interview Crofton ratepayers, and Westholme also decided to join with the Crofton group and execute to form a unit to put the matter clearly before the local residents. Chemunish members will secure a list of taxpayers and poll tax payers and make a personal canvass explaining the scheme, and ascertaining views and endeavor to bring this matter to the personal attention of every ratepayer. The need of such a library has long been felt, and through this scheme, puts it within the reach of all, and hearty cooperation is expected.

Following the business, tea was served by the ladies present, and local executive, and a hearty vote of thanks extended to Lady Smith and visitors for their kindness in attending and the able assistance given.

Little Stories for Bedtime

A Fellow Full of Funny Antics

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Probably Peter Rabbit would have spent the whole morning listening to Glory the Cardinal had he not caught sight of an old friend whom he is very fond. Kitty the Catbird. He was a little smaller than Welcome Robin, and was dressed almost wholly in grey, a rather dark, slaty grey. The top of his head and tail were black, and right at the base of his tail was a patch of chestnut color.

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE

BY LILLIAN BURNS CROMER

CHAPTER LI

The afternoon had been hot, the air filled with the smoke of distant forest fires. And now Val slowed his steps to watch a lowering copper sun poised for its final plunge behind the jagged Olympics. Then as he moved forward again he saw a lone figure coming in his direction across the deserted fairway of the golf course. When he recognized Jan's slim figure and golden head he stopped short in his tracks.

"Hello, Val," she called and waved a slender hand. "Did you have a good leave?"

He was still in uniform, just as he had come from the office, and he stood straight and slim, his cap under his arm.

His gaze held hers. He drew closer until he leaned above her. "Don't you know, Jan? Surely you saw how it was with me that day of the picnic?" His voice was filled with a passionate yearning.

Her eyes widened, the color drained even from her lips. "Yes," her words came in scarcely more than a whisper. "I know. Except why must we speak of it? It can't help—"

He touched her arm and with one accord they turned and walked on slowly to a bench beneath a clump of trees. When Jan sank down there he said, "I think you should know that I am going out on my own. I have been thinking of it for some time. I have always been your Val, except I didn't realize in time. And now I have to go. I am going for my own sake, and I am glad."

She looked up quickly, her pupils dilating. For just an instant he saw a desperate hope gleam there. But after a moment she said, "No, Val! You can't do it!"

He stared back at her. "Why not? She wants to be free."

"But you can't let her go. Lia isn't a girl who knows how to manage her life wisely—the needs to be taken care of—"

He wondered suddenly if Jan suspected some hidden affair between his wife and Cordray. Did she think Lia needed protection from her rich and influential admirer?

But the truth was—that I want you near—"

"Oh, my dearest, why didn't I know you cared in the least?"

"I am going to tell you all of it," she said, her proud head lowered.

"Last summer in Shanghai, you didn't guess, of course, that I was sick with love for you. It angered and humiliated me that you looked on me only as a good play-fellow; and my rotten pride wouldn't let me cajole you into seeing me as the girl you wanted. I scorned to use moonlight and glamor and the enchantment of kisses to open your eyes. I could have done it so easily if I had liked. Oh, Val, what a fool I was! What an utter fool! I'd give the world now if I had used every weapon I possessed to make you understand how much it mattered."

At the despair in her white face a steel band seemed to tighten about his heart. He started to speak but she stopped him with a weary little shake of the head. "And then came the news of your marriage," she said dully. "It reached us at the same time we had heard you had definite orders here to the yard. Oh, Val, that terrible day is seared right into my heart! I just longed to die. I thought I could never stay on here and face the agony of seeing you with—her. I wanted to get away before your arrival. I even made all my plans. But I couldn't leave Mimi behind; and when I stopped to think how lonely I would be without either of us, and how much Mimi would miss me, I knew I hadn't the right to punish those two for something that was all my own fault." She was silent for a moment as she stared at the hazy blue mountains. "Sticking it out here was the hardest thing I ever did in my life. Val," she said slowly. "But no matter what it cost me, I am glad I didn't run away."

"Listen to me," he broke in hoarsely. "It isn't late. We belong to each other no matter what has come between. I must have been mad not to know. Fate played against us, that's all. But it isn't too late. The girl drew away her hands in a gesture of fulfillment. "You aren't thinking when you say that. What if divorce doesn't shock us any more? We have to face other things squarely. And divorce would solve our problem only if—"

"You don't understand," he insisted fiercely. "She wants her freedom. What's more, she is going to get it. I don't owe her anything." He stopped short. "Why do you look at me like that?" he demanded. "What are you thinking?"

FEVER IS HELPFUL
"Isn't science grand? After studying fever for only 4,000 years, scientists have learned that it helps them out things." The above is from

"Isn't It the Truth" column of the daily newspaper.

Unfortunately it must be admitted that mankind has been slow in recognizing the value of heat to the system. A rise in temperature is a sign that something has gone wrong inside that body of yours, but it is likewise a sign or reminder that your body processes are working so hard that they are overheated in their efforts to keep up with the re-fight off whatever it is that is attacking you.

Where there is abundant heat, the blood vessels are widely open, carrying fresh blood to and waste products from the part or parts of the body that have been attacked. As long as this increase in the circulation can be kept up by your central pump—the heart—you have every chance of winning the fight against organisms or their products that are causing the trouble.

In fact you have been reading the case of patients in our mental hospitals, afflicted with the paralytic form of insanity, who have had the organisms of malaria injected into their blood in order to infect them with malaria. Malaria, as you know, produces fever and chills, and after the attack of malaria has been cured by quinine, a number of these patients have been completely cured of their mental symptoms and have been able to return to home and business.

The application of heat in some form to all types of rheumatism has been of great help in restoring joints to a normal or nearly normal condition, thus enabling patients to live free of pain and discomfort. The same thought in restoring starved and apparently drowned persons is by the use of heat. Heat is more important than food because the food takes time to be turned into heat.

So don't worry about a little rise in temperature in a member of your family or in yourself. The rise in temperature shows trouble and it is wise to call the physician, but if you use your own thermometer or the doctor says there is a little rise in temperature, just remember—that your body defences are already fighting for you.

Goofus—What's the first sign of Spring, Rufus?
Rufus—It's when you notice it isn't here.

When the Duke of Connaught first arrived as Governor-General, there were two cases of which the railway officials were instructed to take particular care. Naturally, they did so, but were surprised when a military member of the duke's staff insisted on personally supervising these two cases himself, and actually went into the baggage car and sat on the top of them all the way to Ottawa with a loaded rifle in his hand. To the great relief of the railway, men, Ottawa was reached without mishap, and they were able to deliver the cases safe and sound at Rideau Hall. Afterwards it was learned that the cases contained the duke's medals and the jewels of the duchess. Harry Dooker, of Columbus, Indiana, is sixteen years old. His wife, Maxine, is aged fourteen. Harry has just been fined $25 in the Circuit Court for wife-beating.

Queen Charlottes' Westside Place of Rugged Loveliness

H. D. Parizeau, Chief of Coast Hydrographic Survey, Has No Words to Describe Beauties Found There—Season's Work Successful

Being a lover of nature, as well as an expert hydrographer, H. D. Parizeau, chief of the Pacific Coast survey for the Department of Marine, is now an enthusiastic booster of the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands, where he and his staff spent the past summer charting the waters for approximately 160 miles.

"There is nothing just like it anywhere on the Pacific Coast," Mr. Parizeau said. "It would be difficult to describe just what I mean. One has to see it to realize the great beauty of it all. Some day I am sure it will attract great numbers of tourists."

The west coast of the islands is also a paradise for game, deer and bear being particularly plentiful and quite tame. It would be a crime to kill animals which at the present time have no fear of man, he thought. He also told of the great attraction the sea lion herds of the Keramat Rocks would prove for summer trippers, as ships can pass within close proximity to the rocks and give passengers every opportunity of observing the animals. These rocks are southeast of Cape St. James, the most southerly part of the island group. The herds number approximately 2,500, the majority of them occupying three of the main rocks.

COVERED BIG AREA

When the work set for the parties at Big Bay, Lockport, Louscoune and Houston-Stewart Channel had been completed, they rejoined the survey ship, while the northern camp from Port Chantal moved to Reynolds Sound, and from there it went to Skidegate Channel, going to Security Cove from the latter place, returning to the ship at the end of June. By that time all the surveys were on board, all mountain and harbor triangulation being completed. Part of the time was then devoted to building marks on the exposed shore, observing coast triangulation and connecting up with the geodetic marks of the west coast through the mountain net at the following points: Anthony Island, Big Bay, Tasu Harbor and Skidegate Channel.

This major work was completed by the end of July, when ship-sounding and mountain topography was carried on outside, and coastal line and boat soundings were proceeded with in the harbors, according to weather conditions. This work was completed on September 12.

"Although the survey is not complete by any means, I believe we

SOUNDING MANY MILES

Apart from the many interesting vistas of scenery displayed to gladden the eye from the sea and the prolific animal life to be seen ashore, Mr. Parizeau stated that from the standpoint of work accomplished, the season was one of the most satisfactory in his experience. The staff had covered a great deal of territory, while the ship had completed fully 1,200 miles of sounding, the launches accounting for another 900 miles.

The William J. Stewart was commissioned late in April, and left

German Officials Traveling to Japan

Major E. A. Roth (centre), connected with the German Air Ministry, accompanied by Marine Councilor H. Oberich (left) and Captain C. G. Czech, naval attaché, sailed from Victoria on the S. S. Empress of Russia, last week-end. Major Roth and his aides declined to discuss the nature of their mission to the Far East at this time, other than to state it was of a purely "academic" nature.

have accomplished enough to produce eight navigation charts, and later on I am going to suggest to the department that further surveys be made. There are possibilities that new fishing grounds will be located off the west coasts of the Queen Charlotte Islands and the whole area deserves further and closer investigation," Mr. Parizeau concluded.

During the summer the William J. Stewart accommodated research experts abroad. From the University of British Columbia was G. McLean Fraser, head of the zoological department there, and from the Biological Station at Departure Bay, John Tully, oceanographer. Many specimens of marine life were collected, and considerable data obtained in connection with west coast of Queen Charlotte Islands waters.

PLACE SHIP IN DRYDOCK

Northholm Is Damaged While Southbound on Rock in Grenville Channel

PRINCE RUPERT, Sept. 25 (P)—The Frank Waterhouse freighter Northholm, Capt. A. W. Ogden, was brought to drydock here today under her own power, for repairs to damage suffered yesterday when she struck a rock near Stewart anchorage in Grenville Channel, while southbound in fog.

The vessel freed herself from the rock and turned back to Prince Rupert, but started leaking and the master decided to head for the Skeena Slough, where he beached the ship on a sandy bottom on Dehorsey Island.

The captain telephoned his plight to Prince Rupert and Captain W. P. Arthur, manager of the Armour Salvage Co., left with salvage equipment. The vessel was patched and refloated and proceeded here. The damage has not been estimated.

ROMANTIC TEAM
IN MODERN FILM

Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall Co-Starring at Playhouse Theatre

A new romantic screen team will share the acting honors at the Playhouse Theatre, starting today, when Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall appear in the two principal roles of "Outcast Lady." Though this is the first attraction in which the blonde screen beauty and the suave English leading man have been seen together, those who have viewed the picture predict that their success will result in their being brought together for additional productions.

The ultra-modern, smart, poised woman of the world as portrayed by Miss Bennett blends so well with the suave, sophisticated polished manner of the personalities created for the screen by Mr. Marshall that their future co-starring seems inevitable to those interested in the production of motion pictures.

The supporting cast of "Outcast Lady" includes Elizabeth Allan, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Hugh Williams, Henry Stephenson, Lumden Har, Leo Carroll and Alice B. Francis.

Der Fuehrer Confers With Generals

TEN CELEBRATE
LUCKNOW SIEGE

Oldest Survivor Is Charles G. Palmer, Now Living At Duncan

DUNCAN, B.C., Sept. 25 (P)—Although he will celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday, October 15, Charles G. Palmer, of Duncan, oldest living survivor of the Lucknow Siege, was "feeling fit" today as he observed the seventy-seventh anniversary of the historic event.

He was only a boy, but Mr. Palmer remembers vividly certain incidents of the siege—how tobacco, country brand, sold for 70 rupees a leaf; how septic poisoning brought death from slight wounds and of the final arrival of the Highlanders after their appearance had been forecast two days previously by a Scotch girl named Jean.

Until recent years, when illness out down his energies, Mr. Palmer was an active gardener. His eyesight has prevented him from driving his car of late, and he may usually be found at his home at Quamquam Lake, three miles out of town.

Mr. Palmer left India more than thirty years ago after a career as an engineer with the Indian Government. He was decorated with the C.I.E. for his work in the great famines of 1896 and 1897.

Since Lucknow, Mr. Palmer has attended only one anniversary dinner, when in 1898 he took a three-month trip to London from India.

OTHER SURVIVORS

LONDON, Sept. 25 (P).—Ten people in different parts of the world today celebrate one of the most thrilling incidents in the modern history of the British Empire, the Siege of Lucknow in the Indian Mutiny.

The oldest survivor of the siege is C. G. Palmer, a resident of Duncan, B.C.; the youngest, Arthur Dashwood, seventy-eight, living in London. Dashwood's mother gave him birth in the residency at Lucknow, where seventeen people were herded in one room during the siege. Despite her ordeal Mrs. Dashwood lived for more than seventy years.

SAANICH HEARS ALAN CHAMBERS

Gives Liberal Policy on Unemployment—W. T. Straith Attacks Asiatic Vote

"I stand shoulder to shoulder with my 215 colleagues across this domain to handle the greatest of Canadian problems, unemployment, on a national basis, and to remove all legal obstructions that are in the way of dealing with the situation in a national manner," declared Alan Chambers, Federal Liberal candidate in the Nanaimo riding, when addressing two meetings in Saanich last night. The first was at Royal Oak and the other at Brentwood, where Trustee W. T. Straith dealt with many of the national issues in support of Mr. Chambers.

The first practical step that must be taken in dealing with unemployment is to change the financial structure of the country, by the Government securing control of the greatest weapon it has, credit and currency, which is Canada's most important public utility," Mr. Chambers declared.

"Unless the Government of the country gets control of credit, currency, it cannot successfully attack the problem of unemployment," the speaker continued.

SECOND STEP

The second step, Mr. Chambers said, was to set up a representative body of men from all walks of life to study the problem with a view to finding solutions to it. "There is no one solution to the unemployment situation," the speaker declared, and said that while this body was devising remedies of a permanent character, the situation should be met by the Government

Mr. Chambers touched upon the abuses in trade, and proposed as a remedy for these abuses the modernization of the Anti-Combines Act, and the putting of teeth into it. He also advocated an excess profits tax so that employees would not be exploited, but at the same time nothing be done to stifle initiative. His third proposal in this respect was the establishment of an investment securities control board to prevent the issuance of watered stock and other stock juggling.

Touching upon the tariff question, he claimed that the West was being victimized for not caring very much for being in service after all, and this, together with the nightly appearance of a rather tired-looking young man, caused her mistress some anxiety.

"Well, m'am," said Emily, "it isn't as if he was a stranger really. You see, one of my friends was engaged to him for a long time!"

Mundie Stars as Navy Ekes Out 2-1 Victory Over Hudson's Bay—Kresges Defeat James Bay Wanderers, 2-0, in Hard-Fought Game Staged at Royal Athletic Park

Spencers, twice champions of the Victoria and District Wednesday Football League, opened their 1935-36 campaign yesterday afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park by blanking a young Saanich United team, 7-0, in the first game of the double-header presented at the enclosure. In the afternoon, Kresges came through with a 2-0 victory over the James Bay Wanderers. At Admirals Road the Navy eked out a 2-1 decision over the Hudson's Bay Saanich United, making their return to the midweek loop after an absence of four seasons, presented a young and inexperienced eleven, that was game for the full eighty minutes of play. Trailing 2-0 at the end of the first half, the youngsters never once quit trying.

Lynch Drops Brown in English Ring

Benny Lynch, former Glasgow messenger boy, shown after he had floored Jackie Brown during their championship bout at the Bellevue, Manchester, recently. Lynch won the bout, thus becoming world European and British flyweight champion, as far as English ratings go. The National Boxing Association rates him runner-up, with no champion declared.

terval arrived with the score unchanged.
Keeping up the fast pace they set in the initial stanza, the teams fought every inch of the way in the second half in a desperate effort to gain markers. Kresges, with one goal to their credit, finally got home the second and final tally of the match, when Donald Duncan, teen-aged player, picked the far corner of the net late in this session. It was a beautiful drive and gave Goalie Sadler, in the net for the James Bay boys, no chance to save.

Wanderers put on a final attack in an effort to prevent a shutout, but Kresges defence and Stipe between the sticks, were unbeatable. A few minutes prior to the finish of the match, with a sore leg, D. McMillan refereed and the teams were:

Kresges—Stipe; McKenzie, Crowe; A. McBride, Chapman, Hill; McAllister, M. McBride, Obee, McEllan and Duncan.
James Bay Wanderers—Sadler; White, Gelling; Rookkamp, Fieldhouse, Thame, Eastwood, Anderson, T. Belford, Patterson and Bourne.

NAVY BEATS BOYS
The Navy soccer eleven opened its 1935-36 campaign out at Admirals Road grounds with a hard-earned 2-1 victory over the green-shirted Hudson's Bay Company team.

Spectacular work of Mundie, who proved sensational in the Navy net, prevented the departmentals from driving home at least six goals. However, Mundie did, punched and kicked his way clear many times as the Hudson's Bay squad bore down on him.

Play was even over the entire ninety-minute route. Both teams were visibly tired at the end of the game, and sloppiness crept into the play during the second half.
During the first stanza the Hudson's Bay were the aggressors, but were turned back by the fast working defence of Healy and Dovey for the Navy.

FIRE ENGINE STOLEN

PELHAM, N.H., Sept. 25 (P.)—Fire Chief Daniel Atwood saw red—but it wasn't fire—when he appeared at the town fire house today to find that the new combination hook and ladder motor truck had been stolen during the night.

RIOT TRIAL COMMENCES

and on the sides who did the damage.

Resident of Vancouver fifteen years and mother of six children, Mrs. Turner denied making statements which police attributed to her.

"I don't know what I said," she had previously testified. "I was like a good many more—all shaken up."

Evidence was given that police bombed the longshoremen's hall with tear gas after the trouble broke out. William Hart, chairman of No. 1 strike committee, testified that he had not been able to read since. He spoke of the clash as the "battle of the Ballantynes."

Longshoremen, stated William Henry Moore, member of the strike committee, had great respect for Chief Foster, adding that the chief did all in his power to meet certain incidents.

Moore said that two or three days after the riot one of the parade leaders was back working, "scabbing."

Detective Harry Duggan testified earlier today that a man in the front line of the parade knocked down a mounted police officer with a blackjack before the gas gun was fired.

The trial is continuing.

Freed of Charge Of Manslaughter

WETASKIWIN, Sept. 25 (P.)—With Mr. Justice Boyle saying that he believed the chief Crown witness, Charles A. Daw, actually had been driving the car at the time of the accident, a jury here today took twenty-six minutes to reach a verdict that acquitted Bruce Muir Hay, thirty-eight, Spokane, Wash., businessman, on charges of manslaughter and driving while intoxicated.

Charges were laid as a result of the death, June 19, of Mrs. Ethel Taylor, Calgary, who was killed when the Hay car, in which she was riding, upset near here after colliding with another.

TIME WORKS WONDERS

It is a far cry from the heavy-muscled chariot horses of ancient Rome to the modern thoroughbreds that make to-day's "Sport of Kings". Centuries of patient and careful selection have produced marvels of beauty and speed... horses on which "Time has indeed worked wonders".

There is a parallel in Seagram's Whiskies, products of the same undeviating care and painstaking selection of materials and over three quarters of a century of distilling experience. The beneficent influence of time has indeed worked wonders in creating that smooth, delightful mellowness which has earned for Seagram's Rye Whiskies their international popularity.

THE VERTICAL BANK IS A TIGHT TURN, MADE WITH THE WINGS ALMOST VERTICAL TO THE GROUND.

1935, McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y. 9-301

An airplane in a banked turn is being pulled by two forces—gravity, which pulls towards the earth, and centrifugal force, which pulls away from the centre of the turn. A plane making what is generally called a vertical bank has its wings almost perpendicular to the ground. Actually, a vertical bank is impossible, for then there would be no wing surface exposed to resist the pull of gravity and the plane would sideslip to the ground. However, in what we call the vertical bank, a great deal of centrifugal force must be created to hold the plane in its turn. Hence the stick is pulled hard and the elevators which normally cause the plane to climb or dive, turn the plane and make it climb around the turn. In this position the action of the elevators and rudders is reversed. The so-called vertical bank, done properly, is not an easy manoeuvre for the student because of the reversed control effect. The rudder is used to hold the ship's nose on the horizon, and the terms "top rudder" and "bottom rudder" are used instead of right and left rudder, when the instructor is talking to the student in a vertical bank. In making the turn the ship's nose is held on the horizon, and the general effect on the occupants is that of the ship making a horizontal loop, for there is no tendency to fall out of the plane if the turn is properly made.

WHY WE CALL IT SLANG

"Why is it," inquires a reader "that vulgar or unauthorized language, jargon peculiar to any calling or group such as the theatre or convicts, colloquialisms and the like should be known as slang?"

This is an interesting question, and one whose answer takes us on one of those typical etymological excursions into foreign climes.

There are authorities who claim that the word slang is of gypsy origin. Most probably, however, we have it from the Norwegian "slang" to which our English word "slang" is akin, both having the same meaning. Thus in Norwegian, we have the phrase "slang, skjeften," literally to slang the jaw. Also, "slangjeord," a word that is flung, and therefore, by extension, an insulting or abusive term.

"Slang," in other words, comes honestly by its significance as language which is thrown about, sometimes carelessly, frequently corruptly, a mode of expression not accepted but nevertheless in use.
